Meeting the Ethical Challenges of Leadership: Casting Light or Shadow, Fifth Edition identifies the unique ethical demands of leadership and equips readers to meet these challenges. Written in a conversational, accessible style, author Craig E. Johnson takes an interdisciplinary approach to leadership ethics while blending research and theory with practical application. This unique text offers a realistic look at the "dark side of leadership" metaphors of shadow and light are woven throughout the text as a creative pedagogical tool and promotes ethical decision-making and action through skill development, self-assessment, and application exercises.

"I do not know of another text that comes close to it . . . This book is one of the best on the market!"--Diane Chandler
"The best quality of this text is its emphasis on the leader--casting light or shadow. This theme/metaphor challenges the reader to take stock of him/herself with respect to the metaphor and encourages changes, if necessary, to be a 'light caster.'"--James K. Dittmar
"For my needs, leadership and ethics, this book delivers in ways that allow me to be an effective instructor on this topic."--Lee E. Meadows
"I believe Meeting the Challenges of Ethical Leadership has been a very good basis text for the ethics courses I have taught over the last ten years."--Mary Jane Kuffner-Hirt
"I already utilize the text and my students like it... It has a fairly nice balance between the complexity of the topic and readability and understandability."--Alison Antes
"The self-assessments seem particularly popular and insightful."--Frederick Brockmeier
"I use the text now in 4 classes at three colleges with excellent results. The students love this book."--Lonnie Inzer
