

(Download free ebook) Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry (Oxford Textbooks in Psychiatry)

Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry (Oxford Textbooks in Psychiatry)

From Oxford University Press
*audiobook / ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

#884526 in Books 2015-06-01 Original language: English PDF # 1 8.50 x 1.00 x 11.30l, .0 #File Name: 019936057X468 pages | File size: 68.Mb

From Oxford University Press : Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry (Oxford Textbooks in Psychiatry) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry (Oxford Textbooks in Psychiatry):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Glad to add this to my professional shelf By Duxall Inarow I'm new to Correctional Psychiatry as a Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner. Neither my graduate nor my undergraduate programs included any information on working in this field. This book bridges the gap for me, providing both historical context and current evidence-based practice and real-world knowledge. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Good for psychologists too By Marlena I have only had this a short period of time but the material is very comprehensive and well written. It covers information that correctional psychologists deal with on a daily basis. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Customer excellent condition. Thank you.

Correctional psychiatry has received increasing recognition as an area of practice with unique skills and knowledge. The Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry brings together American and international experts to provide a comprehensive overview of the field. Students and psychiatric residents will find basic information that prepares them for clinical rotations, and psychiatrists working in jails and prisons will find a detailed review of the complex issues that arise in these settings. The Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry contains 73 chapters divided into 14 sections. The first three sections address history, structure, and processes including chapters on case law, human rights, ethics, organization and funding of systems, and stages of patient management that cover initial assessments through re-entry. The next three sections review in turn a broad array of management issues, emergencies, and psychopharmacology topics. Among other topics, these sections include chapters on sleep, detoxification, reassessment of community diagnoses and treatments, diversion programs, levels of care, malingering, substance use within facilities, and formulary management. Section seven has chapters on common psychiatric disorders, relevant medical disorders, and pain management. Sections eight through ten focus on psychotherapeutic options, suicide risk management, and addictions treatment. Chapters on aggression, self-injury, and other behavioral challenges appear in Section eleven. Section twelve reviews unique assessment and treatment needs of many distinct population groups. Special topics such as forensics, psychological testing, sexual assaults, quality improvement, training, and research, appear in Section thirteen, followed by a section devoted to current resources in correctional healthcare. The range of topics covered and the number of prominent contributors set this book apart from other available resources. Readers at all stages of their careers will gain the depth of understanding and practical information they need to approach all of the common clinical, organizational, and ethical challenges they face.

Winner of the the 2016 Manfred S. Guttmacher Award "At last, a truly comprehensive textbook on correctional psychiatry! Edited by well-known leaders in correctional psychiatry, the Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry, addresses all aspects of correctional psychiatry, including little discussed, but critical and useful topics. Each chapter is concise, cogent, clearly written, and therefore remarkably easy, pleasurable to read. As a comprehensive text of the numerous mental health challenges as well as the structures, procedures, cultures and dynamics within correctional systems, the Oxford Textbook belongs in the professional library of every correctional clinician and administrator as well as every mental health, correctional health and forensic reference library." --Alan R. Felthous, Professor and Director of Forensic Psychiatry at Saint Louis University School of Medicine "In this multi-authored text, editors Trestman, Appelbaum, and Metzner have put together an invaluable resource for all psychiatrists interested in treating patients in correctional psychiatry. I highly recommend this book for both novice and experienced practitioners." -- Jeffrey S. Janofsky, M.D., Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Behavior Sciences, Director, Psychiatry and Law Program, Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine "Edited by three renowned correctional psychiatrists, Oxford Textbook of Correctional Psychiatry could not be timelier. This is the first textbook devoted solely to correctional psychiatry, which is now recognized as a critical component of community psychiatry. It is a superb resource and will, no doubt, be the Henry C. Weinstein, MD, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, New York University Medical Center "The editors have used their encyclopedic vision of correctional psychiatry along with a group of prominent contributors to create an outstanding resource. The text provides theoretical and practical insights into the clinical, legal and ethical issues that are relevant to correctional psychiatry and easily earns its place as a must read for forensic mental health professionals, educators, and trainees. Attorneys, administrators of jails and prisons, and policy makers will also find this well written text a valuable resource." -- J. Richard Ciccone, Professor of Psychiatry, University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry "This book can serve as a useful introduction for those unfamiliar with mental health issues in these institutions, and the special topics it addresses in the final section are enlightening." -- Steven T. Herron, Doody's "With its wide coverage, excellent authors, and up-to-date practical guidance, this text is a very valuable reference for psychiatrists working in corrections and for those interested in the ways in which correctional psychiatry differs from general psychiatry." --American Journal of Psychiatry About the Author Robert L. Trestman is a Professor of Medicine, Psychiatry and Nursing at UCONN, and heads UConn Health Correctional Managed Health Care. He received his PhD in Psychology and MD from the University of Tennessee, and trained in psychiatry and neurobiology at the Mt. Sinai School of Medicine. Dr. Trestman has studied the neurobiology and treatment of people with severe mood and personality disorders, and conducts translational research on correctional health. He has published widely, consults to the NIMH, SAMHSA, DOJ and the Vera Institute of Justice, and is Board Chairman of the Child Health and Development Institute. Kenneth Appelbaum is a Clinical Professor of Psychiatry and Director of Correctional Mental Health Policy and Research in Commonwealth Medicine (CWM), the health care consulting division of the University of Massachusetts Medical School. From 1998 - 2007 he served as Director of Mental Health for the CWM correctional health program with responsibility for mental health services provided to all inmates in Massachusetts Department of Correction facilities, including Bridgewater State Hospital. He currently provides consultations on staffing, programming, policy, and safety for state and federal mental health and prison mental health systems. His academic interests in correctional mental health include epidemiology, service delivery models, administrative and clinical policies, self-injurious behaviors, and treatment of serious mental disorders. Jeffrey

L. Metzner received his M.D. from the University of Maryland Medical School in 1975 and completed his psychiatric residency at the University of Colorado's Department of Psychiatry during 1979. He is a Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Colorado School of Medicine in Denver, Colorado, where he is also Associate Director of the forensic fellowship program. Dr. Metzner has written extensively on the psychiatric care of prison populations. He has provided consultation to judges, special masters, monitors, state departments of corrections, city and county jails, U.S. Department of Justice, the National Prison Project, and others involved in the field of correctional psychiatry in over 36 states.