"Activities at End of Chapters - This is my favorite part of each chapter. These activities can be both academic and hands-on, so they provide a great change of pace for the students and instructor." "Compared to prior textbooks for this course I have used, this one is superior. The wealth of activities at the end of the chapters are outstanding for giving students great, hands-on knowledge. This is one of the few books I have reviewed that has gone the extra mile regarding supplements. Everything I always look for, including web resources, legal technology, outside projects, was available in this book. I was really happy to see these supplements." About the Author Cynthia Traina Donnes (B.A., M.A.) began her legal career overseeing bankruptcy cases for a statewide bank's legal department.
