The author shares tips and tricks that he has earned through application of investigative techniques. Mr. Beers is a respected names in the investigative profession and reading this book it is obvious that his methodical and thorough methods should be emulated. He not only tells you sources of information, he gives scenarios that illustrate practical usage and explains permissible purposes and tips to avoid pitfalls that could cause legal problems. My copy is dog eared as I use it as a template to ensure I do not overlook potential sources of information that might deliver the nugget that brings the case to a successful conclusion. I highly recommend this book.

The author retired after 18 years of innovative and successful investigations specializing in the most difficult skip traces, in-depth background investigations and revealing assets liabilities investigations. This book is not a tell-all, but is a concise and informational guide to solving your most difficult cases. There are also added bonuses on making a profit, streamlining communications, using the skip tracing skills to conduct any investigation, identity theft principles, and more.

About the Author Dean Beers started his agency in October of 1987, with a strong desire to have his own business and expand on his "hobby" of finding people. At that time he had no investigative (or writing) experience and relied heavily on developing skills and learning from my fellow investigators, giving back whenever possible. In a short amount of time, he realized that there is nothing else he would rather do. He retired from private investigations in 2005, after 18 years of developing innovative business and investigative practices. After a tragic motor vehicle collision in September 2000, and the catastrophic events of 09/11/2001, Dean's recovery gave him the need to transition to public service. In September 2002, Dean was accepted into the Reserve Training Program for the Larimer County Medical Examiner's Office. In June of 2003, his dedication was rewarded with a part-time position as a Deputy Coroner / Investigator. A full-time position, after completing law enforcement academy, completed his goal in November 2005. This is Dean's first book, he is presently working on a non-fiction thriller and a second investigative book detailing forensic and crime scene photography. His past writing experience includes: Pursuit, PI Magazine, The Professional Investigator , The Norlarco Difference, The Newsletter of Joseph Culligan, The Fort Collins Coloradoan, I-News, The Larimer County Association of Legal Support Staff and Newsletter of the United Kingdom Institute of Professional Investigators. During his career he lectured and taught the very in skills in this book throughout the country to other professional investigators, law enforcement, bail recovery agents and repossession agents. In addition to his writing experience, he has been featured in: Inside Fort Collins,, The Denver Business Journal and The Fort Collins Coloradoan. My professional insight has also been featured in: The USA Today, Business Week, The Privacy Journal and The Fort Collins Coloradoan.
