Thomas Morgan, Ronald Rotunda, John Dzienkowski : Professional Responsibility, Problems and Materials, 11th (University Casebooks) (University Casebook Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Professional Responsibility, Problems and Materials, 11th (University Casebooks) (University Casebook Series):

I can handle highlighting and underlining and writing when it is not as nasty as this. I would much rather have had all the pages highlighted as opposed to these types of markings that I got. I have gotten "acceptable" books that are better than this one! Not happy about it. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. ... there was very little highlighting and the binding was perfect. Either this was a mistake or the vendor ... By patrick fitzgerald I believe the description was "fair" but there was very little highlighting and the binding was perfect. Either this was a mistake or the vendor underestimates the value of its goods. Either way: a win for me. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Pages upside down. By Megan Larkin My book came with the pages upside down, where I have to read the book backwards and not upright. Not very convenient and makes it look crazy.

Continuing the tradition that has made it a leader in its field, this casebook uses problems to provide an overview of lawyers' professional responsibility. One of the most rapidly changing fields in American law, professional responsibility sees new issues, rules and cases each year, all of which are covered in this book. The Eleventh Edition has been carefully designed to be familiar to long time users, and accessible to new ones. It continues its tradition of offering the most usable and up-to-date course materials to teach legal ethics and the law governing the practice of law. Since the last edition, published in 2008, there have been: substantial changes in the ABA Rules of Professional Conduct dealing with conflicts imputed from one lawyer to other lawyers in the same firm. changes to its Model Code of Judicial Conduct and New York has completely changes its Rules of Professional Conduct, to follow the format of the ABA Rules. new court decisions in particular, dealing with conflicts of interest, imputed disqualifications, and ethics related to the internet, chat rooms, electronic discovery, etc.
