Cathryn Crawford : Promise Unfulfilled before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Promise Unfulfilled:

An Unfulfilled Promise is a combination of original and reprinted articles exploring the juvenile justice system in the United States.

About the Author Cathryn Crawford is a national expert who writes and lectures extensively on juvenile and criminal justice issues. From 1998 to 2011, she served as a clinical associate professor and a staff attorney at Northwestern University School of Law's Bluhm Legal Clinic. Lorraine Boissoneault, who has studied in China, Morocco, France, and Nicaragua, will graduate from Miami University of Ohio with degrees in International Studies and English-Creative Writing.
