Gary M. Lawrence, Carl Baranowski : Representing High-Tech Companies (Corporate LawIntellectual Property Series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Representing High-Tech Companies (Corporate LawIntellectual Property Series):

Counseling clients in transactions involving high-tech companies requires familiarity with several of the most complex areas of law, finance and technology. Representing High-Tech Companies book and CD is a one-of-a-kind book, designed to help you handle the whole range of legal issues in this dynamic field. Whether you are building a technology practice from the ground up or want to represent your existing clients more effectively, this book will bring you up to speed and help you stay ahead of the pack. You'll find out about: financing and documenting joint ventures and early-stage strategic partnerships; devising workable nondisclosure agreements; managing an intellectual property portfolio; minimizing litigation risk for public technology companies; designing employment contracts and benefit plans in a highly competitive industry; handling securities laws, import/export controls, and other aspects of the regulatory scheme; and many other hot button legal issues facing technology-driven businesses. Featuring more than 75 forms and checklists, and a remarkable high-tech glossary of industry terms, phrases, and acronyms, Representing High-Tech Companies will quickly become your favorite legal reference. The book comes with a CD-ROM containing all of the forms included in the text.
