

[Read free] Research Handbook on Human Rights and the Environment (Research Handbooks in Human Rights series)

Research Handbook on Human Rights and the Environment (Research Handbooks in Human Rights series)

Anna Grear, Louis J. Kotze
ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Download

Read Online

#4843546 in Books 2015-08-26Original language:English 10.00 x 7.25 x 1.25l, #File Name:
1782544429592 pages | File size: 70.Mb

Anna Grear, Louis J. Kotze : Research Handbook on Human Rights and the Environment (Research Handbooks in Human Rights series) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Research Handbook on Human Rights and the Environment (Research Handbooks in Human Rights series):

'Professors Grear and Kotz have masterfully fashioned a landmark work on human rights and the natural environment. This Research Handbook is more than just a library of current ideas about this important topic; it is an intellectual tour de force that stimulates new thinking on the place of social justice and moral responsibility in the Anthropocene.' - Benjamin J. Richardson, University of Tasmania, Australia 'As the connections between human rights and the environment become deeper and broader, this Handbook offers an indispensable point of reference. A seriously impressive group of scholars addresses a seriously interesting range of themes that inform and challenge the totality of our understanding.' - Philippe Sands, University College London, UK Bringing together leading international scholars in the field, this authoritative Handbook combines critical and doctrinal scholarship to illuminate some of the challenging tensions in the legal relationships between humans and the environment, and human rights and environment law. The accomplished contributors provide researchers and students with a rich source of reflection and engagement with the topic. Split into five parts, the book covers epistemologies, core values and closures, constitutionalisms, universalisms and regionalisms, with a final concluding section exploring major challenges and alternative futures. An essential resource for students and scholars of human rights law, the volume will also be of significant interest to those in the fields of environmental and constitutional law. Contributors: S. Adelman, U. Beyerlin, K. Bosselmann, D.R. Boyd, P.D. Burdon, L. Code, L. Collins, S. Coyle, C.G. Gonzalez, E. Grant, A. Grear, E. Hey, C.J. Iorns Magallanes, B. Jessup, A. Jones, A. A. Khavari, L.J. Kotz, R. Lyster, K. Morrow, A. Philippopoulos-Mihalopoulos, W. Scholtz, P. Simons, S. Thriault, F. Venter

'Professors Grear and Kotze have masterfully fashioned a landmark work on human rights and the natural environment. This Research Handbook is more than just a library of current ideas about this important topic; it is an intellectual tour de force that stimulates new thinking on the place of social justice and moral responsibility in the Anthropocene.' -- Benjamin J. Richardson, University of Tasmania, Australia 'As the connections between human rights and the environment become deeper and broader, this Handbook offers an indispensable point of reference. A seriously impressive group of scholars addresses a seriously interesting range of themes that inform and challenge the totality of our understanding.' -- Philippe Sands, University College London, UK About the Author Edited by Anna Grear, Reader in Law, Cardiff Law School, UK; Director, Global Network for the Study of Human Rights and the Environment (GNHRE) and Editor in Chief, the Journal of Human Rights and the Environment and Louis J. Kotz, Research Professor, Faculty of Law, North-West University, South Africa; Deputy-director of the Global Network for the Study of Human Rights and the Environment (GHNRE) and Co-editor of the Journal of Human Rights and the Environment